QUESTIONS? Email us or call us using the contact info on this form. After you have completed the above tasks, we will email you some additional information.

Why am I receiving this Notice? In North Carolina, parties with a domestic case are referred to the Custody Mediation Program, which requires attending this Orientation and Parenting Apart Class.

What happens during the Orientation/Class? You (and others in attendance) will receive information about the Custody Mediation process and the impact of parental conflict on children. On a later date, you and the other party/parties in your case will have a mandatory mediation session. Mediation offers the chance to create a workable parenting plan with the assistance of a neutral professional mediator. If an agreement is reached, courtroom hearings can be avoided.

What if I received this Notice to Attend after the scheduled date? Please email us at: D14.custodymediation@nccourts.org or call (919) 808-3025 to let us know and reschedule.

What if I have safety concerns or an order of protection? Please contact either (919) 808-3025 or (919) 808-3225 to discuss safety concerns and/or protective orders as they relate to this orientation/class or mediation. If there is an existing Protective Order, please notify us.

Is the mediation requirement ever waived? Sometimes. Mediation may not be appropriate in all cases and is occasionally waived. If you wish to seek a waiver, you may choose to file a “Motion and Order to Waive Custody Mediation” (FORM AOC-CV-632), which can be found at www.nccourts.gov or obtained in the Family Court Suite (Suite 6500).

Do I have to attend? Yes, unless formally waived by the Court. Failure to attend may ultimately result in the contempt powers of the Court, including SANCTIONS and/or FINES.
